Lac la Biche Home Destroyed By Fire

A fire which broke out at 5 p.m. Monday destroyed the home of Louis Rudiger in Lac la Biche.

Mrs. Rudiger, with three of her 11 children, eight of whom reside at home, was in the house at the time and was washing in the basement, when she smelled smoke. Rushing upstairs, she found the rooms full of smoke. One child had taken refuge in the clothes closet.

One of the children rushed out to give the alarm, but by that time the whole house was ablaze. Mrs. Rudiger managed to bring the children, one a baby in arms, to safety.

The fire brigade responded immediately and the "all clear" was sounded at 6 p.m.

The frame of the house is still standing but furniture and clothes were damaged beyond repair.

This is the second time the Rudiger family has suffered loss by fire in the past few years. In the other fire, a garage was destroyed.

The family has been given shelter by Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bouvier.

CMA Manager Optimistic

EDMONTON — R. M. Swetnam, manager of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association Alberta branch, said in a year-end message that 1955 was the most prosperous year in Canadian history and 1956 was expected to be the same.

Mr. Swetnam forecast a good level of business, "barring any radical change on the international, political or trading scene."

Even if 1955's bumper crops were not repeated, "the non-agricultural section of the economy should witness a production expansion at least as high as that recorded this year," he said.

The growth of the population and consequently of the domestic market was the greatest stimulant to the Canadian economy, he said.

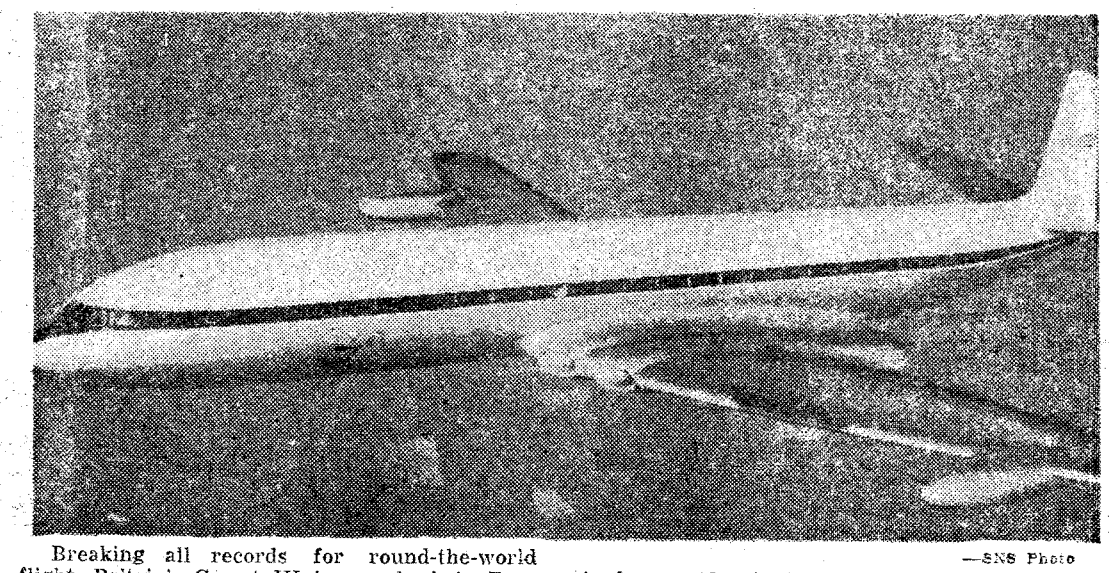
Britain's Comet III Casually Breaks Records on World Flight



—SNS Photo

Breaking all records for round-the-world flight, Britain's Comet III is now back in England after casually setting a new non-military record for flight across the Atlantic. The Montreal-to-London hop of 3,243 miles was made in six hours, 18 minutes at an average speed of 532 mph. The big plane covered 30,000 miles on its epic flight, made to prove the airworthiness of the new Comet.

Letter to the Editor

MORE CONSIDERATION

The shortage of turkeys for the Christmas dinner of many of Lac la Biche's families points out a situation that is not pleasant for either the consumer or the supplier.

Approximately 2,000 turkeys and other poultry were shipped to Edmonton from our town. When the townsmen went to buy their Christmas turkeys they found there were none and raised the cry about the shortage. Possibly if a little more foresight had been used by the poultry dealers, this could have been prevented. The same situation applied to poultry and eggs.

However, the situation for the producer is altogether different. Apparently there is an abundant supply of all poultry and eggs because wren I take my produce in to market it, the prices are low, cheques are late, and all too often some of the employees of produce stations do not show much consideration. Often when I call back a week later for my cheque, I find my eggs still ungraded.

It costs money to raise and feed poultry, which should be evident to everybody. A farmer likes to sell his produce where he can get the best value, but at the same time he expects to be shown a little couresy for his time and labor.

Yours truly,

MRS. WM. KUPCHANKO,
Lac la Biche.

Margaret Wright Becomes Bride Wilfred Klein

St. Alban's Church, Wembley, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Christmas Eve when Margaret Mary, youngest daughter of Rev. T. F. and Mrs. Wright of Wembley, became the bride of Wilfred Frederick Klein, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Klein of Lac la Biche. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father and she was given in marriage by her brother, Thomas H. Wright of Calgary. The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Edwin Broda of Grande Prairie.

The church was appropriately decorated for Christmas, the service being held by candlelight. For her wedding the bride wore a gown of ivory silk moire taffeta with fitted bodice, stand-up collar with sweetheart neckline and lily-point sleeves. The full skirt fell into a small train. Her chapel veil of net with scalloped edge was caught by tiara of small pearls and she car- a tiara of small pearls and she carwith a poinsetta spray.

Miss Nancy Wright in a ballet-length dress of soft flame chiffon, was her sister's bridesmaid. She carried a Christmas bouquet of poinsettia and wore a chaplet of small red flowers. The wedding music was played by Miss Audrey Nickel.

After the ceremony a wedding reception was held in the rectory. Guests were present from Calgary, Wabasca, Grande Prairie and Wembley.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Klein will reside in Grande Prairie where both are on the staff of the Herald Tribune.

EDMONTON — Arrested on a charge of obstructing a police officer during investigation of an alleged stabbing Christmas Day, Howard Michael pleaded guilty Wednesday and was fined $25.

Students' Union Holds Party

The Lac la Biche Students' Union held their Christmas party on Friday, Dec. 23, with a large crowd in attendance. Former students' Union members who attended were Eileen Biollo, Roger Varse, Gerald Varze, Douglas Johnston, Reginald Badry. These are only a few of the many who were on holidays for the festive season.

After an Indian war-dance there was a bunny-hop, waltzes, polkas, and finally the supper waltz ended the dancing, except for "Home-Sweet-Home" after a delicious supper served by the lunch committee. There was a package of goodies for each and everyone.

After wearing themselves out thinking how hard they had to study for the Christmas exams, they welcomed the party with great enthusiasm. "Some of the students were expecting it to be a bit more successful, but if there had been a bit more co-operation from the students with the social convenor, Olga Rispler, it would have been one of the biggest and best parties that the Students' Union has ever witnessed." These were the words of one of the students. All of the teachers were presented with gifts from their classes.

The tree was beautifully decorated and lighted for the occasion. There were treats of bags of candies given to everyone present.

Miss Rispler started the confetti flying and from then on it was like a wonderful rainstorm of brightly-colored stars. The evening ended with the "Home-Sweet-Home" waltz.

Forgers Operating In Alberta

EDMONTON — Edmonton and district merchants have lost thousands of dollars because a gang of forgers are getting cash for money orders stolen from an Edmonton sub-post office.

Police said they have received reports from as far away as Vancouver, B.C., and Flin Flon, Man. of merchants giving cash for the forged money orders stolen in an October break-in.

About 30 of the money orders have been cashed in and around Edmonton and in each case the merchant lost between $40 and $90, the amounts for which the money orders were made out.

Police said they believed the money orders are being passed by a gang.

HOW... DOES A STRONG FINANCIAL SERVICE Sell Clothes?

It is a well-worn, nevertheless true statement that "the world is shrinking!" Modern means of transport have brought nation closer to nation . . . village nearer to city. No longer do rural families lag behind the times.
Rural Albertans are, in the main, as well educated and as smartly dressed as their city cousins. To keep abreast with the times, country clothing stores must carry wide stocks of fashion goods, along with serviceable working garments.
To do this, it is frequently necessary for the store-owner to enlist the aid of a sound financial institution, such as the Provincial Treasury Branches. Drafts, loans, current accounts, money orders, safety deposit boxes are just a few of the many services supplied by our organization.
We would welcome the opportunity to prove our usefulness to your business. Why not visit our nearest branch, and have a friendly chat with the manager?

"And What Is Writ Is Writ, Would It Were Worthier."—Byron

Plenty of Free Advice

The favourite guessing game in Canada and the United States is—what to do with the bulging surpluses of farm-stored grain in our two countries.

Here in Alberta the Farmers' Union, Premier Manning and federal M.P. "Dick" Hanna have all offered free advice to the Government in Ottawa on what to do with grain we can't sell at present.

Recently, Ezra Benson, U.S. Secretary of Agriculture asked for advice from all and sundry on how to solve the problem. Some of the answers received to date include the following:

—Use Greenland as a gigantic deep-freeze, stockpiling wheat, cotton and even perishables there where they will keep indefinitely. This would be handy to Europe in the event of war.

—Let the government pay farmers for shifting up to a quarter of their crop land into woodlots.

—Ban the use of commercial fertilizer, to keep yields down.

—Prohibit professional men, such as doctors, lawyers, editors and others with their own income from buying land from dirt farmers and competing with them.

—Make gasoline out of surplus corn and wheat.

—Send thousands of balloons over Russia, where they would explode and parcels of food, with appropriate propaganda, would drop on the Russians.

—Dump surplus corn, wheat and other cereals into the lakes and streams to feed the fish and forest wildlife.

—Give poorly-paid city people the chance to buy foodstuffs at half price.

—More giveaway to the needy, both foreign and at home. This is a frequent answer.

—More steeply graduated price support, so the big producer can enjoy government price protection only on a smaller percentage of his crop. This, too, is the advice of many of Benson's correspondents.

—Removal of all controls and supports, in other words, complete freedom of enterprise. As a poultry raiser said, "Let the inefficient farmers get jobs in industry; separate the men from the boys." Or a civil engineer: "If people find they cannot support themselves in one field, they will make a change to another." Or a tinsmith: "If farmers are producing too much, let them get into some other occupation; the wagon, carriage and harness manufacturers had to."

—And then there are many who want nothing but tighter controls.

. . . but it has a father, too!

"Necessity is the mother of invention"—but the mere need for something is not fulfillment.

Man needed a wheel—but without imagination there never would have been one. Nor would there have been skyscrapers, printing presses, assembly lines, railroads or supermarkets. Without imagination—the father of invention—men would still stay alive by scrabbling in the soil and hunting beasts for meat.

It's not strange that imagination has fathered more beneficial inventions in the United States than anywhere else. Imagination works best in a free society. Freedom prompt a man to action . . . give him the incentive of being rewarded and recognized for his accomplishments . . . offers him the help of others who provide money to buy tools and build factories.

When you use your telephone, read your newspaper, board a train or hand a prescription to your druggist . . . when you take food from your refrigerator, buy a pair of shoes or step into an elevator—remember necessity was the mother of the inventions that brought these things into being. But without imagination they couldn't have been conceived.

More emphasis should be put on imagination and originality in our homes, our schools and workshops. It's the man or woman with imagination that becomes a great writer, a scientist, engineer or teacher.

Standing in a Shadow

New Year's predictions for the industrial potential of Alberta have been laden with glowing terms. We are told that we are on the verge of a period of economic growth that will bring untold wealth to our Province. It is quite true that we have made remarkable progress during the past year towards this goal but when we take a look at the outlook for agriculture, these phrases have a somewhat hollow ring.

Agriculture is still Alberta's number one industry and will continue to be for some time. More people are employed in Agriculture than in any other industry. Its products are not only the Province's largest source of revenue but also supply a large number of industries, that in turn are helping raise Alberta in industrial esteem.

Many proposals have been put forth to deal with this problem, but no action has been taken. We are standing in the shadow of grain surpluses that are far more significant than dreams of an industrial future. Action is needed by Provincial and Federal authorities to remedy a situation that could cripple our entire economy if foresight is not used.

Canada Not In Her Plans

According to an article in Liberty Magazine, Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth has no plans to visit Canada.

This is too bad. As Queen of Great Britain, Elizabeth is there just about all the time to attend personally to matters of state and the opening of Parliament. If she's visiting in Scotland, at Balmoral Castle, it's no trouble apparently, for the Royal family to make an overnight trip by rail to London to attend to business.

In this modern day it's only an overnight air trip from England or Scotland to Ottawa. Why can't the Queen come over to Canada at least once a year? This week is the opening of Parliament in Ottawa. It would have taken but one day of Her Majesty's working time to attend to the business of Her Canadian realm, and read the Speech from the Throne this week in the Canadian capital.

How about it, Elizabeth, for 1957?

The Winter Weather

A few months ago some of the weather forecasters were saying that this winter would be the coldest we have had in many years. Some of the old almanac forecasters even went so far as to say the winter would be colder than any which we have experienced in this century.

Apparently, the forecasters are on the beam. Just before Christmas, a cold wave struck many parts of the country which sent temperatures down to levels which had not been reached in eight or ten years. Biting winds and drifting snow heightened the misery of cold weather. Except for a few brief days there has been little relief in what appears to be a long hard winter.

All of which makes one wonder whether the trend of the weather—as it is claimed—is not back toward colder winters. A growing school of weather forecasters believes that we are in for colder and colder winters, and that that is the trend, which will last for several years now. This winter's weather so far seems to substantiate that contention.

Note and Comment

According to the Book of Knowledge, Charles Kingsley, whose great historical novel "Westward Ho!" was published just 100 years ago, was chiefly interested in improving the relations between employers and employees, and in other pressing social questions.

The grain storage problem in Spain has become so critical that ancient castles have been purchased by the government for storage purposes.

The nickname "Johnny Canuck" for a Canadian of any racial origin was first used about 1855, but nobody knows exactly how it started.

Over-Population Danger

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON—Lord Simon of Wythenshawe charges there is a "conspiracy of silence" to conceal from the world a threat to it more grave than that posed by the cold war or the hydrogen bomb.

The threat he said, is the birth-rate.

The population of the world increases by more than 88,000 every day. This means an increase of 34,000,000 a year.

In 1900 there were about 2,000,000,000 human beings on the earth. By 2000 A.D. there will be about 5,000,000,000.

The world is increasing its population with no regard for the fact that few countries can adequately support new population. Lord Simon said. The millions of new mouths to feed and millions of new bodies to clothe are setting up "dangerous pressures" around the world.

Lord Simon headed a group of "distinguished natural and social scientists" who just completed a two-year survey of "world population and resources." With publication of their findings, Lord Simon let go with an attack on wheat he believes is a deliberate attempt to ignore the birth rate dilemma.

"You can't even get public bodies like the United Nations to discuss over-population even though it is a matter of unparalled urgency," he said. "Why? I suppose because control of births cuts across some religious and folk beliefs."

The world population survey was sponsored by "Political and Economic Planning," an independent research organization which has inquired into matters of public concern for 24 years. Its council management includes a number of prominent Britons.

Lord Simon, 76 has served in parliament and is lord mayor of Manchester. He once headed the British Broadcasting Corp. and is an authority on slum clearance.

Lord Simon said he was an old man, and comfortably off so he didn't have to worry about the consequences of handing out touchy information.

"I can say birth control is the only solution I see for the dilemma which is rapidly advancing upon the world. I hope some way can be found to do this acceptable to all the main religions," he said.

He urged a large-scale research project to find "the perfect pill" which would render human beings sterile for periods of about a month. Only such a pill, he said, could reduce the birth rate among people too ignorant or too lazy to use other methods.

Critics of Lord Simon's views claim the way to keep ahead of the population increase is to put more land under cultivation, press ahead with development of synthetic foods, and have the rich countries help the poor with money, food and technical assistance.

For these critics Lord Simon has the answers:

1. Theory and experience flatly contradict the contention you can win a race against rising population by such projects.

2. There is almost no possibility that manufactured food will lead during the next 25 years to a supply of foodstuffs sufficient to affect the world food problem.

3. As to help from rich countries to poor ones, he cites the case of Puerto Rico, the United States gave its island possession "incomparably mare generous aid than any other metropolitan country has ever allocated to any other colony." Result: Population doubled, the living standards went up hardly at all, and population pressure sends thousands of Puerto Ricans to the American mainland as immigrants.

At the time the report was being prepared, Lord Simon said, it appeared only two nations were aware of the dangers of their own population—India had allocated $1,408,000 for a national birth control program and Japan had performed over 1,000,000 legal abortions and 33,000 sterilization operations within a year. Since then, Communist China has declared that birth control is "in line with state policy in that country.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

TROUBLES, HAH?

So a Voicer whose husband earns $100 a week, thinks she has financial troubles? Ma'am, how would you like to be struggling with a family of three children, trying to furnish your home and still maintain a decent standard of living — all this on $225 a month or roughly $52 a week? We're doing it and consider ourselves fortunate, because we know many families with six or seven children, who manage on less. Please lady, think twice before sounding off again about your husband's lack of earning power. Many wives are worse off than you.

F. Marie of Toronto has notified police his wife is seriously ill and that attempts to locate his son, Ron, have been unsuccessful.

Feed Short In Some Spots

EDMONTON (BUP)—The early onslaught of winter this year is blamed for the rapidly diminishing hay reserves in northern Alberta.

Although no province-wide shortage is anticipated, hay reserves are dwindling away in the areas surrounding Edmonton, as well as in other districts.

Grazing of livestock ended in November when heavy snowfalls started, and farmers who now find their hay and feed running short, must look to their neighbors in the south part of the province to replenish their supplies.

Due to less snow, farmers in southern Alberta have not felt the hay and feed shortage. Their cattle have been able to graze throughout most of the winter.

Alberta's Agricultural Minister, L. C. Halmrast, said in Edmonton farmers with surplus hay are "sitting tight" to make sure their own needs will be met. He added there is no shortage of coarse grains for feeding livestock.

It has also been reported that Saskatchewan's winter feed supplies are being used rapidly, due to continued cold weather and blizzard conditions.

Edmonton-Strathcona Member Says Surplus Should Be Kept For Defence

By T. W. PUE

SOUTH EDMONTON — Before leaving for Ottawa to attend sessions of Parliament, R. F. L. 'Dick' Hanna said he had what may be considered an important resolution to be put on the order paper.

Mr. Hanna, who is Liberal member for Edmonton-Strathcona, will urge that surplus non-perishable food be shipped to NATO countries in Europe and kept in storage there by the Canadian government.

Primarily, Mr. Hanna's proposal would result in a defence measure aaginst any future war. "In the past," said the member for Edmonton-Strathcona, "we've almost lost two world wars because we couldn't keep the flow of supplies going overseas smoothly, because of enemy action.

In any future world war, we will undoubtedly have to take part and play our role of food supplier. Wouldn't it be a good idea to have the food already there in storage than risk ships and men in trying to transport it under war-time conditions?"

Besides making the resolution to store surplus grain and canned foods in Europe, Mr. Hanna expects to take part in the debate on the Speech from the Throne. He will urge relief measures for the living conditions of Northern Indians.

R. F. L. HANNA, M.P.

Six Declared Accident-Prone

EDMONTON — Sixty-eight motorists have appeared before a provincial government board formed last April to help eliminate accident-prone drivers and those with physical inabilities which make them road hazards.

Figures released show that six persons have been permanently prohibited from driving motor vehicles. Two of the six volunteered to be permanently suspended.

When the four-man board feels a motorist's driving licence should be suspended, recommendation is made to the minister of highways Suspension is then automatic although a motorist may appeal to the minister.

In 11 cases, licences were suspended for an indefinite period.

New Fire Stations For Edmonton

EDMONTON (BUP) — The Edmonton fire department has requested two new fire stations for 1956.

The request was disclosed during a review of the department's operations in 1955 by fire officials. One station would be in the Calder area and the other in downtown Edmonton.

Guy Vaughan, Guest Speaker C of C Meeting

FORT SASKATCHEWAN Guy Vaughan, of Station CHED, Edmonton, was guest speaker at the December meeting of the Fort Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture. Drawing on 10 year's experience in broadcasting, Mr. Vaughan told of many amusing and some embarrassing experiences. He also explained that a 15-minute news broadcast usually requires about 2½ hours of advance preparation, if it is to be accurately and concisely given.

The Chamber of Commerce was responsible for initiating action in co-operaton with the town council for erecting and decorating Christmas trees in the down-town area. This has been greatly appreciated by the public.

ALBERTA SEED BOARD APPROVES FIVE NEW GRAIN VARIETIES

EDMONTON, (BUP) — Agricultural Minister L. C. Halmrast announced the Alberta Seed Board has recommended two new varieties of wheat, three of barley and two of oats for use in the province.

The new strains of wheat are Lake, and rust-resistant Selkirk. The recommendation for their use was made recently at an annual meeting of the Seed Selection Board, following extensive tests and experiments.

The Lake strain has been added to the list of approved varieties for the Provost-Coronation area while the Selkirk was approved for the southern irrigated areas where rust is often present.

Newal has been dropped from the list of approved strains of barley, while Gateway, Husky and Wolfe have been added. The Gateway strain is a smooth-awned early variety developed by the University of Alberta, while Husky is a feed barley of generally high yield and was developed by the University of Saskatchewan.

Recommended as new varieties of oats are Rodney and Abegweit. Rodney is suitable for areas of black and dark brown soil zones as well as irrigated areas, while the Abegweit thrives in the grey wooded soils and transition zones of the Peace River.

Mr. Halmrast said the board's recommendation refers to the Abegweit strain as S 1 and not to the commercial lots of Abegweit which have been grown in the province for some time.

Top performance and lively beauty are the outstanding attributes of Buick's new Century and Special series for 1956. A 255 horsepower V-8 engine, with four-barrel carburetor, hooked up to the new variable pitch Dynaflow transmission makes the Century the leading performer on the highway. Special models are powered by the same big engine, rated in this series at 220 h.p. Dynaflow drive is standard equipment on the Century, optional on the Special. Many engineering advances have been made in the chassis of both series to improve ride and stability.

NEW BUICKS SOON ON DISPLAY AT DISTRICT DEALERS' SHOWROOM

BOYLE — This year's dazzling new Buick will soon be on display in Central Sales and Service showroom. Delivery of the '56 Buicks has been delayed by labor difficulties at the General Motors plant in Oshawa, but it is expected that all 10 new models will be available to dealers throughout western Canada within the near future.

Two of Buick's popular '56 models, the Century and Special series, will highlight a new four-door "hard top" in both series, more powerful V-8 engines, and a new Dynaflow transmission to increase take-off performance and economy. The new styling of the Century and Special models is in the same bold design that has put Buick ahead of all other car lines in increased cross-Canada sales over the past two years.

A total of 10 models—one more than in 1955—will be offered this year, six in the Special and four in the Century series. The new model, in the Special class, is a four-door "hard-top", while another four-door "hardtop" will replace the four-door sedan in last year's Century series. Convertibles and estate wagons will again be available in both the Century and Special models.

Style changes for 1956 will be strikingly new in both series. The rakish new front-end features a wide-screen grille with a new V-shaped design, new headlights, a new bumper, and a new hood ornament resembling a swept-wing jet bomber.

Safety features include seat belts, available as dealer-installed equipment on both series; standard door locks with an interlocking feature that prevents them from flying open in the event of a collision; and a foam rubber pad in blue, green or black mounted atop the instrument panel as a safety and to reduce sun glare. This pad is optional of both Century and Special models.

The new V-shaped grille has a wide screen which is chrome-plated and buffed to a high luster. It is centred with a large medallion carrying the nameplate, year and series, and two trim wings extend across the grille from either side of the centre medallion.

The new "jet-bomber" styled hood ornament has a flat surface and is recessed to give the hood a forward sloping appearance, making it look longer, with a cleaner design.

Headlights also are redesigned to give the front fender a longer look. A full flange, extending all the way around the lamp, is designed specifically to take full advantage of the new sealed beam headlight which minimizes the reflection of light upward in front of the car.

A longer look is given to both the Century and Special series cars by the low rakish rear-end design, introduced last year and refined for 1956. The basic design of the tail-lamp is the same on all series—in the shape of a horizontal V pointing forward. The combined stop, tail and directional signal light is housed in the upper section of the assembly, with the back-up light in the lower section.

The new trunk lid ornament on the Century and Special is the same as the ornament on the grille—a medallion with wings extending out from either side.

The distniguished chrome molding sweeping in a graceful arc along the entire side of the car, long a Buick hallmark, is retained in all Century and Special models for 1956 as are the venti-ports on the front fender. The venti-ports, though, are of a new design, with an oval shape. There are four of these new venti-ports on the Century models, three on the Specials.

Also new for 1956 in the two series is the option of all cordaveen interiors in the two-door Century and Special "hardtops". All models in both series feature new interiors in many combinations of nylon and cordaveen and genuine leather and will offer a wider selection of interior color combinations than at any other time in Buick history.

Even accelerator and brake pedals are offered in matching colors, for the first time.

Instruments on the colorful new instrument panel, now identical on Century and Special models, will be easy to read, and will provide one of the most colorful backgrounds yet attained in an instrument panel.

The Chrysler Corporation recently reported that its first quarter earnings in 1955 were greater than earnings for the full year of 1954.

Keeping Of Records Necessity In Successful Farm Opertaions

By J. S. LORE

With the start of a new year pehhaps it would do well for us to sit down and take stock of our business. Farming, as like every other business, should be carried on in a business-like way. To every well run business the keeping of records is a necessity and farming is no exception. The best time to start to keep records is at the start of a year.

The first thing to do when starting to keep records is to make an inventory. An inventory is a list of all land, buildings, machinery, livestock and equipment that you use in your operations. When making out your inventory also list a fair market value for each of the items in the inventory. Also list the feed supplies that you have on hand in your inventory. When you have completed your inventory you have completed the hardest step in keeping your records. After that it is a simple matter of keeping track of your expenses and receipts. When you buy a new machine you simply add it to your inventory or if you sell something you take it off the inventory.

There are several reasons why it is important to keep records. One is to have a record for income tax purposes. Another and more important is that you can tell very easily whether you are going forward or backward in your business. The money you have is not a good indication of whether you made a profit or loss in a year, because you may have more money on hand at the end of a certain year in actual fact the depreciation on your buildings and equipment may have exceeded the increase in cash to the point where you have actually lost money. On the other hand you may have made increases in your inventory to show a much larger profit than the cash on hand would indicate.

Perhaps this does not sound important, but if in the period of a few years your books keep showing losses you may have time to prevent complete loss if you find out why you are losing and do something to correct it. It may also give the operator an opportunity to appraise his business every few years and see which lines are paying him best in the long run without having to resort to memory.

To Employ 600 At New Pulp Mill

EDMONTON (BUP) — Resident Woodlands manager of Gordon McNab, of Hinton, said in Edmonton that timber cutting and other forestry operations to supply the new $35,000,000 sulphate pulp mill now under construction, will mean employment for more than 700 men by June 1st.

The mill is being built by Northwestern Pulp & Power Ltd., a subsidiary of North Canadian Oils Ltd. and the St. Regis Paper Company of New York.

Seven timber camps within a radius of 20 miles of the mill are expected to be ready by June 1st.

One camp, 12 miles west of Hinton, has already been cleared and construction of camp buildings will begin immediately, McNab said.

Target date for completion of the mill is the summer of 1957. Company officials plan to stockpile about 300,000 cords of pulpwood on the site before the mill starts operations. Hinton is about 180 miles west of Edmonton.

The McDonnell XV-1, a convertiplane, twice has made the successful transition in tests from helicopter to conventional forward flight.

Fire Extinguished In Home At 'Fort'

Faulty wiring is believed to have caused a smouldering fire in the Agnes Forbes Lodge for elderly women in Fort Saskatchewan. Damage was light and none of the 21 women in the two-storey building had to be moved from the building.

The fire occurred in an older section of the lodge. Six women, whose rooms are in the older section, were moved to a new addition until the fire was extinguished a short time later. Damage was confined to the kitchen.

Gas Consumption Hits Record High

EDMONTON (BUP) — A severe winter this year has been responsible for boosting Alberta's coal production and gas consumption.

Officials of Northwestern Utilities Limited in Edmonton said city consumption on Saturday, Dec. 24, hit a record high of approximately 160,000,000 cubic feet. This eclipsed the previous record of 152,000,000 cubic feet on Nov. 23, 1955, when it was 14 below.

The entire system which is connected with 35 communities and has a total of 65,000 consumers, is also breaking records. On Nov. 22 deliveries totalled a new peak of 109,000,000 cubic feet, including Edmonton. The previous high was 91,000,000 on Dec. 29, 1954.

Officials of the provincial mines branch also announced that production of coal in November of this year totalled 651,086 tons, compared with 579,293 tons in November, 1954. However, production for the first 11 months of 1955 dropped a total of 414,341 tons compared with the same period in 1954.

C.E.D. sees the outlook for a '56 tax cut as good.

Many halfway jobs may "get by" . . . for a time. But you need overhaul work that matches the original care and precision built into your Allis-Chalmers tractor.

Our factory-trained mechanics will give you much more than just a "get by" job. Their experience, knowledge and use of proper tools are of great value to you. You get longer tractor life and less cost per hour of operation.

We have the tools that fit the job. Valve refacers, rod aligners, compression testers, engine stands, torque wrenches, all help our trained men do the best work for you.

Arrange for a winter overhaul Now.
